Q and A

Joshiah: Well, now. Well, once again, allow us to express our greetings to each of you and to remind you that there exists that opportunity for you to be involved in that telepathic exchange of information, to enter into that altered state of consciousness and to have that silent communication, if you choose, with other entities that would welcome that opportunity to interact and to exchange with each of you.

Now. You exist, once again, in a vibrational level that is similar to and yet rather unique from all of the vibrational levels that exists throughout all of creation. You see, there are a multitude of vibrational levels that entities exist within and create within. Absolutely. This vibrational level however that you exist within is a vibrational level that has within it that electromagnetic type of energy that limits the understanding of who and what you truly are and limits your understanding in your so-called awake state of understanding your creation process. It limits as well your understanding of who and what you truly are through all levels of consciousness, even in your so-called meditative states and in your dream states and your between incarnational states; you still exist within the influence of that electromagnetic type of energy. Your choice. Absolutely.

Now, that electromagnetic type of energy is not reproduced throughout all of the vibrational levels throughout all of creation and in that sense it makes your vibrational level unique. Among unique vibrational levels.

Now. For once again, as a result of that so-called electromagnetic type of energy, that veil if you wish, you create realities that offer you the opportunity to experience a range and depth of feeling that is not duplicated throughout all of creation in any of the other vibrational levels. You see, when you consciously understand the creation process you understand as well that it's within your capacity to alter it. And when you understand that absolutely then you can change the reality. And when you understand that you can absolutely change the reality then the influence of that reality is not nearly as intense as a reality that's created where you don't believe that you have the capacity to control it.

We've used the analogy that someone would enter into a theater. You understand absolutely that what you view upon that screen is an illusion. It's a trick of light. You understand absolutely that what you view upon that screen is a projection of some producer's idea of what they are attempting to present as a reality. You understand that it's an illusionary reality. Even understanding that you still have the capacity to experience a very broad range of emotions and feelings. You can get quite caught up in the story that you're viewing upon that screen, even though you understand that it's illusionary.

But when you leave the theater you also understand that it was an illusion and the intensity of the feelings and emotions are nowhere near what you experience in your day-to-day activities because, you see, in your day-to-day activities you believe it's real. You believe it's real because you choose to, once again, put in place that energy that limits your capacity to understand that it's your creation, that it's your reality. Absolutely.

Now. The other vibrational levels exist within the same time and space that your vibrational level exists in. You believe in time and space. It's one of those human consciousness belief systems that it's very difficult for you to step outside of. Absolutely. And as a result, you believe that there is some space between your vibrational level and the other vibrational level, that there must be a passage of time or there must be some space that you must traverse through in order to leave this vibrational level and to enter into another vibrational level. And it's not that way at all.

Time and space are illusions. They only exist in your conscious state. When you are in your altered state of consciousness, particularly in your deep dream state and you become involved in what you refer to as lucid dreaming, you get glimpses of the perception of no time and space. You have the opportunity to get glimpses of what it's like to have vast experiences of time that happen within a so-called blink of an eye. You get slight idea of that concept of no time and space and when you become quite active and quite proficient at that lucid dreaming you can indeed enter into other lifetimes in the blink of an eye. You can eliminate that time concept. It only exists as an illusion. It only exists in your conscious state. It exists because you, once again, agreed as a human consciousness concept when you entered into this vibrational level to participate in that belief system.

It's an illusion. The other vibrational levels exist within the same time and the same space. It's like when you understand the concept that there are a multitude of radio frequencies that are existing within your atmosphere, within the same time and same space, and yet you have the capacity through your various apparatuses to tune into a particular radio wave while eliminating all the rest. They haven't gone anywhere. They're still there. They're still as functional as the radio wave that you happen to be tuning into. You've just eliminated them. You've ignored them. You've [acted] as if they don't exist when you tune into the one. And so it is, as you come into this vibrational level and eliminate the rest. And yet, similar to your radio frequencies, they exist within the same time and same space.

Many individuals desire to enter into those other so-called realms of existence. And they find it very difficult to do because they attempt to go somewhere. Individuals who are involved in attempting to have their consciousness be perceived in other areas of your Earth system have difficulty because they believe they have somewhere to go. You have nowhere to go. You are already there.

Time and space are illusions. You are there. The idea is to understand that you are there. It's like changing the tuning system on your radio into a different frequency. It's already there. You just have to tune into it. You have to become adept at tuning into the radio frequency that you wish to perceive. And so it is with your realities, you have to become adept at tuning into the various frequencies that you wish to be involved in. It's not a case of going somewhere. It's more a case of going within.

Many individuals believe that if they could go somewhere, "If we could just get there then we could have the answers." The irony of it is that you have the answers. They are withinside. You have but to go withinside.

You see, in your quest to find your spirituality you're looking for something that you cannot be separated from. It's who and what you truly are. You choose to hide from it, but you can't lose it. You're searching for something that you have simply chosen to ignore. You're searching for something that's always there. It's who and what you are. You can't be separated from it. It's not something you can lose and therefore you don't have to search for it. If you wish to make that connection then you go withinside.

You see, the information that we give to you is simply information that you desire to hear that you've contained withinside each of you. It's not something that we have some extensive knowledge to. To hold a concept that some entity exists outside of your vibrational level somehow has access to knowledge that's beyond your accessibility is ludicrous. To believe that some entity existing outside of your vibrational level has more knowledge of how you create your reality than what you have is again ludicrous.

It's like sitting within your household and looking across your street at your neighbor and believing that you know more about what goes on inside that neighbor's house than they do or that they know more about what goes on inside your house than what you do. It's not possible. You know how you create your reality. You simply choose in your conscious state to not recognize it. You simple choose in your conscious state to hide from the understanding of who and what you truly are. And so, you will not find the answers by searching in a book. You will not find them by trying to find some method or technique that you can employ. Absolutely not. You find them by going withinside. The answers are withinside.

When you understand that you are the creator, then indeed, you become at peace with that aspect of your so-called consciousness. You begin to understand absolutely that you are in control of this illusion that you experience. There may be times, absolutely, when you are experiencing day-to-day activities and you say, "Well, if I'm in control of this then I'm not doing a very good job." Absolutely. But nonetheless, you understand that somewhere withinside you have chosen to hold a particular belief. You have made the choice to be involved in that reality. And if you have made the choice, then you are in control. And if you don't like it then ultimately you also realize that you can change it. That's the truism that you search for.

You can look, once again, through all of the books and you can look through all of the various CDs and the tapes and all of the other various methods of attempts to give you explanations and all you will find are clues. All you will find are keys. The answers are withinside. And in order for you to have that answer you must go withinside. And come to the understanding of who and what you truly are. Come to the understanding that you are the god that you search for. Absolutely. Come to the understanding that you create this reality that you are experiencing in your day-to-day activities and come to the realization that you absolutely cannot fail to come to the understanding of who and what you truly are.

There's no test that you have to pass. This is not some type of experiment that you've been subjected to. It's a choice that you made to participate in in order to experience a various intense range of emotions and feelings. It's really that simple. At some point within your consciousness you absolutely cannot fail to come to the understanding of who and what you truly are. Those are the truisms that you search for. And we can explain them to you again and again and again, but until you go withinside and experience it and own it, they are just words. Whether we express them or whether you read them in a book. It's something that you must experience. It's a choice that you must make. And it's a journey that only you can accomplish.

Now. If you have any questions we would be willing to attempt to answer them for you.

Questioner: Yes, I'd like to understand a little bit more about our relationship with one another. You say that we are the gods we're searching for. Are we all a part of the same vibrational level, do we (inaudible) individual experience, or how does that work as far as the rest of the (inaudible) mankind.

Joshiah: It becomes very difficult to give an explanation, for once again, when we give an explanation it's based upon concepts that are illusionary concepts, such as time and space. You see, we suggest that you're a Piece of the One. And that seems to infer that there's a greater One and it's not really that way at all. And yet, to simply say that you are all that is seems to infer that there is no other. That each individual that you experience is also simply your creation. And it's not that way either. You are unique individuals. Absolutely. And yet, you are all one, again a concept which cannot be explained but can be experienced if you go withinside and search for that answer.

Now. You as individuals existing within this vibrational level are entities who indeed agree to participate. You enter into this vibrational level by choice. And you may be surprised to discover that there a multitude of entities who have absolutely no interest in your vibrational level and have absolutely no desire to experience existence within your vibrational level. We have an interest in your vibrational level through our interaction with our friend, Elias, and through the sharing of emotions and feelings that we experience in that interaction. We have absolutely no desire to experience an existence in an incarnational period in your vibrational level and for the life of them we can't understand why you would choose to be involved in this vibrational level. (Laughter) But nonetheless.

It becomes an oversimplification to say there's just you and this one. It's not really that way. And yet each individual is all that there is and yet is nothing. For time and space are illusions. To say that you are a Piece of the One is to infer that there's a greater one and it's not really that way at all. You see, you as an individual, and this is where it gets difficult in your consciousness to get a grasp of, you as an individual exist within each and every atom of this entire universe. And not only you as an individual but each and every individual existing within your entire vibrational level exist within each and every atom of your entire universe. You are all one. And yet you are all separate.

You are all that is and yet you are the most minute particle that you can even conceive to be. You as entities are similar, absolutely, and yet unique as well. You as entities choose to enter into this vibrational level. You exist in a conscious state that you believe in a conscious state is the most important state that you can be in and as we have already suggested it's not that way at all. It's actually in terms of your creation process the most illusionary state that you can be in. As difficult as that may seem for you to grasp.

But you as individuals in that conscious state agree to participate. You in a so-called dream state, in the now, begin to lapse back into your belief in time and space. You in your so-called dream state, in that altered state of consciousness, put in place the agreements and the contracts to interact with other individuals in your so-called conscious state and to come into that conscious state without any type of remembrance of that interaction in your dream state where you've put in place those agreements and contracts. And yet, in your awake state you fulfill the agreements and the contracts and you participate.

Now. Many individuals are involved in a particular interaction, such as I have here on this afternoon and it is a similar interaction and yet we assure you that each individual is having different experiences in terms of emotions and feelings. The same interaction, but because of different belief systems you experience different feelings and emotions. So it is in your day-to-day activities. You choose to experience various feelings and emotions and so you agree to participate in day-to-day activities with other individuals. Other individuals, many times, that you don't even believe that you know who they are in your conscious state and yet we assure you in your subconsciousness you interact with them, absolutely.

You don't have accidents in your so-called awake state. You just believe they're accidents because you don't understand the creation process, but in your altered state of consciousness you put in place the agreements and the contracts. And then you come back into your conscious state, you don't retain the memory of that interaction and you go about your day-to-day activities like you're in a fog and it's all a surprise. And yet it's your creation. Based upon your choices and your decisions. Based upon your belief systems. Based upon your attitudes. Absolutely. Based upon your thoughts and your feelings. Your imaginations and your desires and your expectations and your belief in who you are and what you are.

And so you create that reality and you do it from a position of absolute unconditional love. And yet, in your conscious state it all seems like it's so much beyond your control. You are very good at what you do. Absolutely. You make it seem very, very real and yet it's very illusionary. And all of the individuals existing within your vibrational level are here by choice and they interact with each other. They all exist throughout the entire vibrational level. There's not one area of your so-called universe that you do not exist within and that you do not have the capacity to experience. You simply believe, once again, in that time and space concept which makes it difficult to experience. And you also believe as well that you're not in control. That it's really not you, that you don't exist in each and every atom. And so, that if you don't exist in each and every atom then you can't have that experience.

Now. Once again, we caution that you don't become too involved in trying to get a grasp on that concept because an individual who gets a grasp on that concept says, "Well, if I exist within each and every atom then I must be creating each and every atom and that means that I must also be creating the other entities." It's not that way. That's an oversimplification in an attempt to try to validate a certain feeling or a certain thought that you're having. And it's not that way at all.

You are an individual. Absolutely. You are a spark of consciousness, if you wish, that has the capacity to create. And you interact with other consciousnesses who also have [this] capacity to create. And you agree to create your reality. There is not one aspect of your reality that you have not agreed to participate in. And if you get a glimpse of the truism of that statement, then you begin as well to have a complete change of your attitudes of many of the realities that you experience. You begin to lose fear. You begin to understand that anger is an emotion that's best expressed and not contained withinside. You begin to understand that in order to love another you begin to love yourself. And you begin to understand that while you may feel anger at another's shortcomings it all passes very quickly. And you understand that the other is involved in a creation process just as you are. And you begin to understand as well that you cannot fail to come to that understanding of who and what you truly are. And you begin to look at different interactions from an entirely different point of view.

When you're involved in a situation that once caused you anxiety, you may step back on it, and observe the anxiety in others and realize that it was your choice to be involved and it's your choice to feel the anxiety. It's your choice to feel the anger. It's your choice to feel, indeed, the hurt if you wish. And it's also your choice to feel that you are in absolute control. Those are the benefits of understanding who and what you truly are.

And so once again, we caution that you don't become too engrossed in this concept of trying to get a grasp of how you create this reality and to bring it all into your consciousness so that you can understand it consciously. You see, you exist in the now. And again our reference to time concept falls back upon your vocabulary and the use of a vocabulary that's based on a belief in time and space. For the now encompasses all, your so-called past and your so-called present and your so-called future, if you wish, are all encompassed in one particular aspect of the now.

And so, when you're in that altered state of consciousness you are so much more than is possible for you to hold in your conscious state. And in that altered state of consciousness we suggest that you put in place the agreements and the contracts for the day-to-day activities that you experience in this incarnational period because that gives you an explanation that you can somehow grasp within that belief in time and space. We would go in a step farther and suggest that in that altered state of consciousness you're not only interacting in this incarnational period, you're interacting in all of the other incarnational periods that you exist in throughout all of creation. You are so much more than is possible for you to understand in your conscious state and when you can bring back that understanding in your conscious state the illusion would dissipate. You would be what many would refer to as being in a state of insanity. You just couldn't hold it. You couldn't understand it. You couldn't grasp it from a conscious state. It's not possible. And yet, you do so from your subconsciousness without any effort at all. You do it effortlessly, on a whim, to validate a belief that you hold. It's really that simple.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes, thank you.

Questioner: (Inaudible) ask about Earth changes. Is it our belief systems that we have, do you change what's coming or ...

Joshiah: You believe, again, in time and space and it becomes a difficult thing to suggest that you change or don't change what's coming. You create it all. It's an illusion.

Now. Many would like to know what would occur in your so-called future. And it's impossible to give you an accurate prediction of what's going to occur in your so-called future. We have on various limited occasions given predictions that are what we refer to as very short-termed predictions because, you see, to suggest that your future is set in time and that's what it is, this is what's going to occur, is to take away your free choice. It's to validate your belief in time and space. To take away your free choice by predicting that a certain future is written in stone is to limit your capacity to alter your beliefs and by altering your beliefs to also alter your reality. You create the entire reality. This entire universe, not only the Earth that you exist on, is your creation. You as an individual and as a human consciousness create the entire universe. You exist, once again, in each and every atom of the entire universe and if you wish you can change it. The only limitation to the changes that you can facilitate is your imagination. Absolutely.

And so, do you change the Earth? Absolutely. Constantly. Continuously.

You believe in time and space. You believe that there's a progression. We would suggest that it's not a progression. It occurs in the now and that this reality that you're experiencing is being constantly replaced and replaced and replaced in an instant. And that's simply an analogy. That's not accurate either, it's impossible to give you that explanation.

Do you have the capacity to influence the future of your Earth? Absolutely. You not only have the capacity, you do influence it. You do influence it. It's your creation. This entire vibrational level is the creation of the entities that exist within it and it's illusionary. It's the most illusionary reality that you can experience.

Many times, when one's in the conscious state and you're involved in a very tragic situation, it's difficult to step back and say, "Well, I guess I created that. That's a rather tragic creation. I wonder what I was involved in or what I was thinking when I put that in place." But nonetheless, it's your creation.

There are other individuals who have the capacity to simply step aside from those particular instances and to become an observer, if you wish, and to be involved and yet to not have the experience, to be involved and to suffer no type of harm. And you in your conscious state don't look at that particular individual and say, "Hmm, I wonder what their thought process was?" You have a tendency to look at that particular individual and say, "I wonder what god he is?"

You are the same. It's your creation. You can create whatever it is that you desire. Some individuals have a greater grasp of that creation concept than others, but it doesn't mean that they are any more advanced. It simply means that they are for all intents and purposes more aware of the creation process. That's neither good nor bad. That's not somehow an individual who's more advanced than another. The individual who seems to be the most downtrodden individual, who sits on the side of the curb and begs for his existence, many times, is much more enlightened than the individual who seems to have the capacity to create whatever it is that they desire. That individual who is sitting on that sidewalk in that seemingly dire straits is creating a reality that is exactly what they desire to experience and their so-called higher self is joyously involved in the creation process, validating every belief that they hold. Which is the more enlightened? Which is the right or wrong?

Enlightenment and right or wrong concepts are human consciousness concepts. The spark of consciousness that you are creates whatever it is that you desire and does so without judgment. Including the particular activities that you experience in your conscious state on your Earth system.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes, thank you.

Questioner: Next?

Questioner: I have a personal question. I'm in the midst of recreating my life from (inaudible) going to new directions and at times I'm either really passionate and joyful about that and other times when I'm just tired, bone tired. I'm just wondering what light you might shed on that or what's my higher consciousness (inaudible).

Joshiah: First of all, we really hesitate to give absolute direction because, you see, you have the choices to make. It's your creation. We have no desire to influence it one way or the other.

Now. Having said that however we would suggest to you that there is this concept that you refer to as depression that you experience in your conscious state and it can become quite beneficial to you understand that when an individual in their conscious state experiences depression it is invariably as the result of two different aspects occurring that you have created in your day-to-day activities. And one of them is a buildup of little emotions that you don't express.

An individual can be involved in a situation in their employment and they can have these little annoyances that are occurring around them constantly. Day after day after day. And at first they seem insignificant, where you don't deal with them. And then that seemingly insignificant emotion builds and builds and builds until it causes one to feel depressed. For you see, an emotion that is not expressed is an emotion that can cause you difficulty. The only dangerous emotion is one that is not expressed. The only bad emotion is one that you hold withinside. Even the expression of love can come to cause one some type of depression if one does not express it, but allows it to simply sit there and build up and build up and become unexpressed and it can put you into that experience that you refer to as depression.

The other aspect that can cause depression is when there is some sudden change in your day-to-day experiences, in your lifestyles. And each of you have witnessed that type of activity. You've seen individuals who's involved in existing within a certain town. And they have this very comfortable employment and things are going along very well and then they see the opportunity to move to a different environment and be involved in a different activity. A new employment that can be more challenging, and should be more exciting and they become involved in building this different life. And when they stop their present lifestyle and when they move into the new lifestyle they feel depressed and wonder what on earth have they gotten into. It seems like it's almost beyond their capacity to handle it.

You see, the same thing with women who are experiencing pregnancy and they're in a very joyous situation. For many individuals that experience of having another entity existing withinside can be a very wonderful and uplifting experience. And then when the child is born it should be even a greater experience of happiness and joy. And yet, it can be very drastic change that causes an individual to enter into a state of so-called depression.

A very drastic change that from a view of others who exist outside of that reality and are observing it have absolutely no concept of why someone should feel depression when it should be a very joyous occasion. And yet, that sudden change can cause someone to feel depression. In a situation that you're involved in where you're experiencing that sudden change it allows you to experience the highs and the lows, the feelings of euphoria when it seems like you're finally getting that which you desire, but there's this sudden change in the lifestyle that allows you to also be involved in that experience of depression and wondering, "What on earth am I doing? Seems like I'm losing it all here. Is it really worth it? It would seem like it's so comfortable to just be where I was and to not enter into this new and challenging existence."

Understand that those particular aspects of creation cause those experience of depression and that it's very easy to get past it, if you wish. When you understand the concept of what's causing the emotion then you can handle it and you can change it and you can get on with your creation of your reality.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes.

Questioner: So are we not all on a journey back to God?

Joshiah: You are God. You cannot be separated from who and what you truly are. You see, that's the difficulty in your concept in believing that you're not in control. And there's nothing wrong with that belief if that's a belief that you desire to hold. Absolutely. This is not a right or wrong concept. You're not on a journey unless you believe that you're on a journey. You exist within this vibrational level because you choose to exist within this vibrational level and you can at any time choose to leave it. At any time. You absolutely cannot fail to come to that understanding of who and what you truly are. You are the god that you search for.

Now, if you don't want to accept that concept again in your conscious state it's not right or wrong and that so-called god that you are will create whatever reality that you desire to experience to validate the belief that you hold. And if you believe that there is a God existing outside of your vibrational level that creates this reality for you then you will indeed have experiences to validate that belief. Experiences that you create to validate the belief that you hold.

The only journey that you are on is the journey that you choose to put in front of you. The only lessons that you have to learn are the lessons that you believe you have to learn. You entered into this vibrational level for a very simple reason and the simplicity is almost overwhelming and that is that it's absolutely impossible in any of the other vibrational levels throughout all of creation to experience the level of emotions and feelings that you experience in this vibrational level.

We would challenge each of you to be involved in any aspect of creation and to break it down to the meaning of why you're doing it and to not come up with an emotion or feeling that you desire to experience as the reason, as the motivation for every aspect of your creation, for every instant that you're involved in. Each of you entered into this particular atmosphere this afternoon for the opportunity of experiencing a feeling and an emotion. That's why you came. That's why you exist within this vibrational level.

You are the god that you search for. You cannot lose that. You cannot be separated from it. You can hide from it and you do that quite well. We're not just referring to you, but individuals existing within this vibrational level do that quite well. It doesn't change the aspect that you are the God that you search for, that you create your reality, and you absolutely cannot fail to come to that understanding. Everything else is illusionary.

If you wish to believe that there is a God that you're journeying back to, then you can have that belief and you can exist within this vibrational level and you can do quite well and have all types of experiences to validate that belief system and they can give you that opportunity to experience a range of emotions and feelings that you desire to experience. Again, it's not a right or wrong concept. It's a choice that you make.

When you make that choice and you create a reality that you believe is created by some other entity, via the God existing outside of your vibrational level or even other entities existing within your vibrational level that you believe have the ability to influence your reality without your consent, then indeed you will experience realities that seemingly are beyond your control to validate that belief that you're not in control. Realities that you create.

You are the god that you search for. The answers that you search for are withinside. You will not find them in any book and you will not find them by listening to someone else. It's a journey that you must make withinside to make that connection.

When you leave this vibrational level you will indeed have the understanding of who and what you truly are. You exist in your conscious state, once again, in the most illusionary state that it's possible for you to exist in. When you enter into your dream state you are still influenced by the so-called electromagnetic type of energy that limits to some extent the understanding of who and what you truly are. And then when you go beyond that dream state, one step farther, if you wish, in your consciousness, into the between incarnational state, you still exist within a vibrational level that's influenced by your beliefs and has that limitation in place that's there by your choice in that electromagnetic type of energy that limit's the understanding of who and what you truly are. Even in that so-called between incarnational state.

You see, many individuals when they so-called die think that that's it. You think that you've crossed over. That you're done in this particular level of existence, and it's not really that way at all. When you've so-called crossed over you are in an altered state of consciousness that still exists within the limitation of this vibrational level. You exist within the limitations that you put in place of that electromagnetic type of energy. And in that so-called crossover place if you hold a belief that you're going to meet some god that's going to take you into a heavenly place then you will have that experience. Absolutely guaranteed, you will have that experience. We also absolutely guarantee that it will be very difficult for you at that level of your consciousness to sustain the experience and to make it seem that it's real.

You will, at that level of your consciousness, begin to understand that it's your creation. Yes, you can have it. It [can be] quite enjoyable. You may wish to validate it. You may wish to sustain it. But you begin to understand that it's also an illusion and that it's your illusion and that it's your creation. And at that point if you have the opportunity to progress farther if you wish into your consciousness and at that point come to the understanding of who and what you truly are within the limitations that it's possible for you to understand in this vibrational level and make the choice to either reincarnate or to leave this vibrational level. Make the choice. Not someone else make the choice. Not because you've connected with some other entity that says, "Alright, now you've succeeded, you can leave."

You make the choice. It's your choice. You're here by choice. The god that you search for is withinside. It's who and what you truly are. And should you choose to leave this vibrational level you can do so. Absolutely. No one is forcing you to stay here. You are here by choice. You came by choice and you will leave by choice.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Thank you.

Questioner: We were wondering about, I know we're living an emotional life here, but what are the crop circles? What do they mean?

Joshiah: You see, it can mean different things to different individuals and each can be right. You see, that's the irony. It's an illusion. What it means is what you believe that it means.

Now, there are those individuals who would believe that it's simply the creation of some individual in their conscious state. And for those individuals they will have all types of validation of their belief systems. There are other individuals who believe that there's some external energy that's creating those phenomenon and for them they will have all types of realities as well to validate their beliefs.

It's an illusion. It's an illusion. If you believe that they are the result of some other energy that's creating that particular aspect of an illusion then you can have that. Absolutely.

You as an individual existing within this vibrational level and all of the other individuals existing within this vibrational level create the entire, the entire, illusion that you experience. Including the crop circles. Are they real? Are they someone's hoax? We would suggest to you that it doesn't matter. It's whatever you believe.

When an individual comes in contact and connects with their higher self, when you begin to truly grasp the concept that you are the creator, then certain aspects of the creation take on an entirely different meaning. You view them from an entirely different light. There are individuals who would believe that your planets and your stars and your planetary systems have a direct influence upon the reality that you experience in your day-to-day activities on your Earth system. And for them it's an absolute truth. If you believe it then you can have it and you can validate it and you have all types of realities and experiences that validate the belief.

The problem with holding beliefs that you don't believe that you are in control of is that you will also experience realities that validate that you're not in control. If you believe that the planets and the solar system has that capacity to influence your life that's beyond your control then you have experiences that you create that seemingly are beyond your control. You have a planetary system that influences your reality because you allow it to influence your reality because you make that choice. Because you believe that it has that capacity.

The key is to turn it all over and understand that all of the beliefs that are influencing your reality are influencing your reality because you're allowing it to influence your reality. If the crop circles are a dream and you don't understand the process of whether or not they're real, it's because you make that choice. They're illusory. It's an illusory reality. It seems real in your conscious state but it's an illusory reality. You can have whatever it is that you desire. Absolutely.

There are those that would suggest that the crop circles are made from entities that exist outside of your vibrational level, that exist outside of your so-called atmospheric existence. And if that's what you wish to believe then you'll have all types of examples to validate that. There are other individuals who believe that it's caused by energy that comes from within your Earth systems and they are causing that particular phenomenon to occur. And if you wish to believe that you can have that as well.

It's an illusion. It's an illusion that's a result of your imagination. And we suggest it's a result of the imagination not only of one individual but of a multitude of individuals.

The only limitation to your creation is your imagination. We make many statements that seemingly are so simple that individuals just simply let it go past. It's like, "That's a very interesting concept, but how do you apply it?"

Consider, that the reality that you experience in this incarnational period that's a result of your imagination, such as your capacity to have flight, is something that in other incarnational periods as little as two or three hundred years ago was a perception that was beyond your imagination. Beyond your imagination. Not the imagination of some past entity, your imagination.

You see, when this particular so-called environment that you exist in was in the Lemurian stage you as entities existing within the vibrational level now were the entities that existed within the vibrational level then and when we talk about the Atlantean periods and the post Atlantean periods and we talk about the Egyptian periods and we talk about all of the other various periods that so-called humanity and the entities existing within your Earth have progressed through, you are those entities. You are the entities that existed in those Atlantean periods. In those Atlantean periods you had the understanding of your capacity to create a reality in a type of engineering that's far beyond what you understand in this particular incarnational place and in this incarnational period. You. Not individuals who existed then, you. You as the individuals in those particular reincarnational periods brought into your consciousness those understandings and created that reality. Because you believed that it was possible. Because you used your imagination.

Your imagination is indeed the [precedings] of your reality. Desire, imagination and expectation create your reality. You are the individuals who existed in the so-called Dark Ages. When you didn't have any understanding of any type of engineering. You were the individuals who progressed through your various periods of so-called advancements. Not some other individuals. You. The same individuals. The same entities existing and experiencing different incarnational periods. Using different imaginations.

And you exist within an incarnational period where you believe that there are energies that have the capacity to create these strange phenomenon. You imagine that it's possible. Not some who don't imagine it's possible and so they go to all lengths to disprove it and there are others who go to all lengths to prove it is indeed an actual phenomenon that's beyond your control.

It's your creation. You are the creators of your reality. You are the God that you search for and you absolutely cannot fail. The entire rest of your vibrational level is an illusion. Even those aspects that you have difficulty in proving scientifically are still your creation and your illusion.

Does that answer your question.

Questioner: Yes, thank you.

Questioner: My father's [going to my mom through the meditation.] Do you have a message for me (inaudible).

Joshiah: Many times when we're interacting in these particular group type of activities you must understand that the energy that you create, that you create, attracts other entities to be involved in that experience. And when we suggest that it's possible for you to have a silent communication, that's an actual experience that it's possible for you to have in your so-called subconsciousness, in your altered state of consciousness or in a meditative state, and it's not at all unusual for you to have an interaction with other entities that are in different levels of consciousness. Even other entities that are existing, what you believe to be, in this incarnational period or other entities that have been involved in this incarnational period and that you believe have passed on, such as your father for example, or even other individuals who you are experiencing incarnational periods with in other so-called times, in other incarnational periods and many of those may appear to you as strangers and yet somehow very, very familiar. It's like you know that individual but you just can't recognize them from this incarnational period.

We are an entity that exists outside of your vibrational level. We enter into your vibrational level through our friend Elias because of the exchange of information that we receive and that we enjoy. And in return we offer him opportunities to be involved in similar experiences to what our creation is. To get glimpses into that understanding of the now and to get glimpses into that understanding of who and what he truly is. That's why we come.

The information that we give to you is simply information that you contain within each of you. We do not have any access to some unlimited amount of knowledge that you do not have access to. Neither do we have the capacity to interact with other entities that exist within your vibrational level to any other capacity that you have. It's entirely possible for you to interact not only with your father, but with any other entity that you desire to interact with. That interaction indeed is one that you have the capacity to learn to separate from what is your imagination and what is an interaction. You see, many individuals have that interaction, they have that connection, but then they simply pass it off as being imaginary. "It can't be real."

Or, "It's difficult, isn't it, to contact someone that exists in another realm?"

Once again, time and space are illusions. You are not separated by time or space, but rather by a vibrational level, and indeed even in this incarnational period and in this vibrational level there is no time or space. The entities that exist within this incarnational level are here if you are there and if you wish to connect you have but to express that intent and to believe that it's possible and you can accomplish that.

We did not and do not necessarily recognize or participate or attempt to connect ...
